Text

Food Safety is the scientific discipline which describes the handling, preparation and storage of food in ways that help prevent infection caused by eating contaminated food. Every year millions of people around the world get sick from the food that they eat. These sickness can be very serious. From processes which start on the farm to practices in the kitchen, human activities play an important role in food safety.

Good food hygiene at home is essential to ensure that the food that you and your family eat is safe. Poor hygiene practices in your home which put you at risk can be avoided. Harmful germs that cause food poisoning can spread very easily. Make sure that you do everything to prevent this.

Take note of these food safety and hygiene rules while preparing food :

Wear a clean apron. Keep food preparation surfaces as well as utensils such as knives and chopping boards clean .

Wash your hands thoroughly before and after handling food. Wash vegetables and fruits in clean water before you use them. Tie back long hair. Cover food if there are flies around. Use clean water for cooking, not just drinking. Cooking food well can kill germs in food . Peel or wash fruit before you eat it. Avoid unpasteurised milk.

Be careful with dairy products, which are easily contaminated. Check the « sell by » date. Never eat meat, poultry, eggs, sliced fresh fruits and veggies that have been left out of the fridge for more than a couple of hours. If you buy frozen food, put it in the freezer before it defrost. Use food that has been thawed immediately.
